he above rules, established Dr. J. C. Young in 1850, which have done so much ecure the reputation of this stitute, are still adhered to, rding those in need of dical aid, the certainty of e and the utmost confidence. There is nothing of so great ortance to the sick as to where to find a physi- whose skill and humanity assurance of proper and ate treatment. The Doc would respectfully call the ation of those of both sexes are suffering or in trouble the invariable success that [illegible] marked the career of the titute in the seventeen years its existence.

It is unnecessary in this con- to enumerate all the plaints treated at the In- tute, but the Doctor feels it duty to call especial atten- to that terrible scourge, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, that is sapping with its in- the very life of its [illegible]; in the treatment and re of which the Institute has ned so enviable a reputa-

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, Saturday Aug 8 1868.

Since the adjournment of Congress Washington has been very dull. Most of the members of Congress have gone home and many of the clerks and employees in the Department are away on temporary leave of absence.

Accounts from every part of the country indicate that the Presidential canvass is opening lively and will probably be the most exciting political contest since the formation of the Government. The rebels of the South have taken courage from the platform of the New York Convention and the character of its nominees, and will make a desperate effort to carry the late rebel States and are threatening war again if they do not succeed. The pirate Semmes is in Washington now, and is predicting another war. He is being quietly lionized by the Democrats, who call and pay their respects at his hotel.

VISIT TO THE PACIFIC COAST PROPOSED.

The Republican National Committee and some of the members of Congress from the Pacific States, have invited Senator Harlan, of Iowa, to visit the Pacific coast, and take part in the Presidential campaign. Mr Harlan has gone home, but he replies that, after remaining a short time in Iowa, he will, if he can be spared from his own State, "cheerfully comply with the request of the National Committee," and adds that it will afford him a "long wished for opportunity to visit that most interesting part of the country lying beyond the Rocky Mountains as well as to perform some service in sustaining the principles which underlie the perpetuity of Republican institutions." The Pacific coast is attracting the attention of public men more and more each year, and will, ere long, wield its proper influence in public affairs, and in legislation. All who go, are favorably impressed with the resources of the country and with its high destiny in future, and for that reason, if for no other, it is to be hoped that Mr Harlan may visit our country.

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION.

About two hundred delegates are now holding what they call an International Convention in Portland, Maine, the object being to bring about a reciprocity treaty between the United States and the Canadas to advance the interests of navigation on the St Lawrence and the Lakes, and to encourage the construction of a Northern International railroad across the Continent. It is not likely that Wm Pitt Fessenden will oppose reciprocity between the United States and Canada, because that will be of some benefit to Maine, but he is bitterly opposed to applying the same principle to the Sandwich Islands.

THE COTTON CROP.

Reports from South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida, say that the continual rains which have visited the South lately are injuring the cotton crop. On nearly all the plantations throughout those States and on the sea islands near Charleston, the cotton worm is at work. In some places it is estimated that the crop is already cut short one half.

DEATH OF MILES O'REILLY.

The papers are filled with obituary notices of Charles G. Halpine (Miles O'Reilly) who died in New York on the 3d inst. He served with distinguished honor in the Union army during the war, and was widely known for his writings, both poetry and prose, under the signature of Miles O'Reilly. He was City Register of New York and editor of the Citizen at the time of his death. He was a native of Ireland, having been born near Dublin in 1829. He supported Lincoln in 1864 was elected by the Republicans and Democrats in 1866, by an immense majority over the regular Democratic nominee, supported Hoffman, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, in 1867, and advocated the nomination of Chase by the Democrats in the present canvass. He was, perhaps, the most popular and influential Irishman in the country.

POSTMASTER'S CLERKS.

The Post Office Department is now engaged in revising and adjusting the salaries of postmaster's clerks in the city post offices. It is said that the salaries of post office clerks in large cities are inadequate to the labor performed, and that they will be increased. The work of revising and regulating those salaries is performed by the Post Office Department once in two years.

IMPORTS FOR THE YEAR 1868.

A statement of the imports from all foreign countries to the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1868, has just been compiled at the Treasury Department, from an aggregate of nearly forty thousand pages of returns. The table embraces everything imported into the United States, including specie and bullion, and shows a total amount of $371,970,441, being about one million one hundred thousand per day. The previous year the total amount of imports was $411,731,104, showing a decrease the past year of forty millions.

ALABAMA CLAIMS.

It is said that the instructions of Minister Reverdy Johnson, who sailed for England on the 1st inst., are few, and his powers to treat with the British Government in the settlement of the Alabama claims general and without limit. As he is untrammelled by any of the demands or propositions previously made by the State Department, during the long protracted discussion, it is expected that within a short time after the arrival of Minister Johnson at the Court of St James he will have effected a satisfactory adjustment of the claims of our Government against England for property destroyed by the Alabama.

A GEOLOGICAL EXPEDITION.

Commissioner Wilson of the General Land Office, has appointed Prof F. V. Hayden of the University of Pennsylvania, and Messrs E. J. Smith and J. P. Carson, as his assistants, to make a geological survey of the Territories of Colorado and Wyoming. They have started for the scene of their explorations, where they intend to remain until cold weather compels them to return. The Commissioner expects that they will collect much valuable information in regard to that interesting and unexplored country.

DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON.

Gen Canby, commanding the Second Military District, has been ordered to take command of the Department of Washington, and is expected here in a few days.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue Mr E. A. Rollins, tendered his resignation before the adjournment of Congress, to take effect when a successor should be duly appointed and qualified. The Senate refused to confirm the President's nominations for the position, because he sent in names of none but the most notorious whisky thieves in the country, and so Rollins is still the legal Commissioner and holds possession of the office. But the President backed up by the horde of revenue thieves who surround the White House has been trying ever since Rollins tendered his resignation to get him out of the office. He has endorsed on the back of the letter of resignation "Your resignation is accepted," and claims that this vacates the office. Attorney General Evarts, who returns from the North to-day, will be called upon to give an opinion in the case and if it is favorable to Mr Johnson's construction it is said that he will appoint [illegible], who was [illegible] by the Senate. If the President can get Rollins out the Copperheads and whisky thieves will have full control of the revenue Bureau and will receive all the appointments under the new tax bill and use the public money freely to advance the cause of Seymour and Blair.

POSITION OF THE CABINET.

It is understood here that Messrs McCulloch, Browning and Welles have declared themselves straightout for Seymour and Blair, and it is intimated that Messrs Seward, Schofield, Randall and Evarts, will be called up to the confessional and made to define their position at the next Cabinet meeting. The Democrats claim that Seward is the only one who will give any trouble, but Republicans, who assume to be well informed, are very positive that neither of the three will support Seymour and Blair. However, it is likely they will find themselves mistaken in this so far as Randall is concerned at least. It is generally admitted on all hands that Seward is hostile to Seymour and Blair, and it remains to be seen whether he will openly avow himself for Grant and Colfax.

THE CZAR AND THE PRESIDENT.

The Copperheads have been circulating a report that the Czar of Russia sent an autograph letter to the President of the United States congratulating him on his acquittal in the impeachment trial which they say was not delivered to the President until after the passage of the Alaska appropriation bill for fear it might offend Congress. They pronounce it a good joke on the Radical Congress. The whole story is contradicted on the best authority and it is not likely that any such letter was sent.

EXPLOSION IN THE CAPITOL.

An explosion took place in the basement of the Capitol yesterday, in what is called the tomb of Washington, under the dome. The room is seldom entered and had become filled with gas from some of the pipes which leaked. The gas caught fire and exploded, blowing out most of the doors and windows and shaking the immense iron dome to the top. The funeral paraphernalia of President Lincoln, which had been deposited in the "tomb" for safe keeping, caught fire and was partially destroyed. This tomb was constructed to receive the remains of Washington, but they have never been removed from Mt. Vernon.

AN OREGON INVENTION PATENTED.

Mr. Andrew Smith, of Dayton, Oregon, has just received a patent for a new horse power for a reaper and thresher. Mr Smith, accompanied by Mr J. W. Fletcher, also of Dayton, has been here several weeks awaiting the action of the Patent Office. They received the patent a few days ago, dated July 21, 1868.

Another Rebellion—The Secessionists in the Field—Their Designs and Hopes.

[From the New York Times, (Conservative.)]

It is remarkable how quickly and audaciously the old secession and rebel leaders of the Southern States have sprung to the foreground since the nomination of Horatio Seymour.

Previous to that event, and ever since the destruction of the rebel Confederacy by the Union arms, they had either refrained from forcing themselves upon public attention in their old position of leaders, or they had come forward in something like a becoming attitude, to exercise their influence in favor of the recognition of the new order of things which had risen after the settlement of the pro slavery struggle.

But now—and this is the thing which we wish especially to call the attention of the loyal American people—we not only see these old time secessionists coming forward to resume their former places as leaders of affairs, but we see them coming forward to glorify the rebel cause, to vindicate its claims, to reassert its pretensions, to advocate its success and and proclaim their hopes of triumph.

This is the startling spectacle which we have witnessed during the last two or three weeks.

We have seen men bearing such ill-omened names as Wise, Toombs, Vance, Yerger, Semmes and Wade Hampton, proclaiming to that remnant of the Southern people which did not fall bloody victims to their accursed rebellion, that, in the triumph of the Democracy, there is yet life for the "lost cause," and in the election of Seymour there is hope for the detestable principles which, but three brief years ago, we supposed had been shot into political perdition by a million of American rifles.

We have seen the fire-eater Wise proclaiming publicly that secession is not dead, but is waiting for the opportunity of its re-assertion through the revolutionary party which has just taken the field. We have heard the fire-eater Toombs proclaiming the doctrine of nullification in the old fashion, uttering the same denunciations as of old with all the former bitterness, pouring his malediction on the brave men who have saved the Union, and threatening to "resist to the death" the laws which establish political equality and freedom of suffrage throughout the South. We have seen the implacable secessionist Vance proclaiming that "what the Confederacy fought for would be won through the election of Seymour." We have seen "Chronometer" Semmes of the Alabama proclaiming at Mobile last Monday at a Democratic ratification meeting that he "had been a Democrat all his life—before the war, during the war, and since the war—and fought the war on the principles of Democracy, believing that the grand old Constitution which embodied these principles was about to be destroyed." And then, after this declaration that he had carried out his constitutional ideas on the pirate decks of the ship which the gallant Winslow sent to the bottom of the sea, we find him denouncing on the same occasion "And now, fellow citizens, I have come here to declare that I have given in my allegiance heart and soul, to the old flag, provided we can restore the old flag again to be the representative of the principles of the Constitution, which we will be able to effect by the election of Seymour and Blair." And still again, at the same meeting, he asserted that a Democratic success "will again reduce the negro to a subordinate position as the inferior race, and restore the white man to the government which belongs to him." We have seen Wade Hampton, the Carolina rebel leader, going round among the young men of the Virginia colleges glorifying the rebel cause and reasserting its principles, we find him coming North here as a Democratic delegate to threaten renewed resistance and another rebellion if his unjustifiable claims are denied by the Government, we find him in Baltimore, on Thursday last, reminding the Democratic association of the time "when I was a soldier in the glorious army of Northern Virginia, and the sons of Maryland swept across the borders and again stood side by side with South Carolina in a great contest for liberty", and we find him in the same speech and almost in the same sentence, mingling the praises of the rebel Generals with the eulogies of Horatio Seymour, and the passed triumphs of the Confederacy with the expected victories of the Democracy.

What has encouraged all the old secession leaders of the South to come out and rush around in this way at the present time? What has led them to utter such language, to indulge in such hopes to proclaim such schemes? Are they ignorant of what they are about? Are they talking without knowing what they say? Are they planning without understanding the ground they tread upon?

It is mortifying and humiliating to hear the language and see the pretensions and demonstrations of these old secession leaders. Hardly have they been compelled to surrender their arms before they are again assuming the airs of a dominant and domineering party. Hardly have we got through the work of quelling the rebellion before we see it again preparing for action. Hardly have we got through the sanguinary labor of crushing their cause and principles before they are again proclaimed as though they never had been seriously wounded.

It is evident that the loyal people of the country must rally at the polls to teach the Democratic party and the secession leaders who look for it to carry out their schemes a lesson even more severe than it got four years ago.

A LIVELY PLACE.—On the 27th ult Peoria Illinois, was a lively place. A fight in which the Irish, the Germans and the police engaged raged for two hours in the afternoon. During the fracas a boy of nine years was carried to the calaboose in a beastly state of intoxication. a store on Main street was entered and robbed. two girls ran away from home to [illegible] the celebrated equestriennes with Lake's Circus and a number of street fights took place in the evening. On the night before a coal miner got out of bed, dressed himself in his wife's clothes, went to a shed and hanged himself. Besides these, says a Peoria correspondent, there were a few funerals.

Gallant Phil Sheridan says "Two solutions were necessary for the settlement of the rebellion. The first was to take away from its military strength. That was done at Appomattox. The second is to take away its political strength. That will be done next November. It will be a short campaign, but as decisive as Appomattox."

Ex Governor G. A. Miller, of Georgia, an original Union man, who, when the war broke out left his fine plantation in Georgia, came North entered the army, and rose to the rank of Brigadier General before its close, has taken the stump for Grant and Colfax.

Grant's Last Campaign.

[From the New York Tribune.]

The rebels and their Northern allies are so fond of enlarging upon what they call Grant's "butcheries" in the first campaign of the war, and so resolute in asserting that Lee was never outgeneraled but simply overdone by a tremendous preponderance of numbers, that we have been at the pains of procuring from the official returns of both armies now preserved in the Archive Office at Washington, the exact figures which show the true state of the case and we beg for them the reader's careful attention. Lee's field return for April 20 1864 shows a force present for duty of [illegible]591 exclusive of Longstreet's corps, which joined him a few days later; the field return of Longstreet for March 21, 1864, shows 18,387 for duty making 72,278 present for duty. These are the returns nearest to the date of the battle of the Wilderness which are in possession of the Government. The total present, including sick, in arrest and extra duty men, amount by the same papers to 86,742 in the field with Lee when Grant crossed the Rapidan. The original papers now in the Archive Office, War Department, are signed by both Lee and Longstreet. Lee's return states that Hoke's Division was absent, not reported, at the same date, and Hoke's return [illegible] 5,664 enlisted men present for duty, or 7,660 [illegible] men, total present. The Valley district is also returned as not reported.

The field return of the Army of the Potomac for the same date as Lee's, April 30, 1864, [illegible] 72,117 present for duty, equipped, [illegible] 8,747 cavalry, also present for duty, equipped. Besides these, Burnside's corps joined Grant before the Wilderness. This corps was 19,250 strong, for duty, but from these, Ferrero's division, 3,095 must be deducted, as it was at this time never allowed to go into battle, being used as guards for the trains. This leaves 16,155 as B[illegible] real strength for duty. Adding this and the cavalry force to the strength of the Army of the Potomac, makes 98,019 as the utmost limit of Grant's effective force at the Wilderness. It [illegible] be remembered that Grant's movement was constantly offensive, through a densely [illegible] country, and that during every battle of the Wilderness campaign, except the first, Lee fought behind breastworks, an advantage which [illegible] quite doubles the strength of the defense. One other important consideration is that Grant had a supply train 60 miles in length to guard, in a hostile country, while Lee was constantly falling back nearer to his base, and through a [illegible] in which every white was his friend.

Grant's losses up to the crossing of the [illegible] including the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, North Anna, Cold Harbor, and all the smaller fights between the Rapidan and the James, as reported in the regimental returns on file in the War Department were 6,586 killed, 26,047 wounded, and 6,626 missing; total, 39,259. Of the wounded, very many were only slightly hurt, and not [illegible] from duty more than a day or two; and at [illegible] 20,000 out of the 26,047 [illegible] to duty so that Grant's [illegible] from the Rapidan to the James, [illegible] than 20,000 [illegible] undoubtedly, most of [illegible] Grant took, during the same time, 10,362 [illegible] least 4,000 more than Lee. There are no other data on which to form [illegible] except that in the Wilderness he [illegible] exposed as Grant, attacking and [illegible]; at Spottsylvania, each [illegible] was repelled; at Cold Harbor [illegible] but without [illegible]. It is [illegible] to suppose that Lee's [illegible] of [illegible]. At any rate, Lee [illegible] that he never again assaulted Grant, in [illegible] the nine months longer that the war [illegible].

It has been repeatedly asserted that Lee's army was not recruited, to any extent, during the last six months of the war, and that he had but a handful of men opposed to Grant, in the final campaign, from Petersburg to the Appomattox. But Lee's own field returns show that on the 28th of February, 1865, he had 73,349 men [illegible], 59,094 present for duty. This was exclusive of the local militia of Richmond, always put into the trenches in a fight, and [illegible] strong, as well as the gunboat [illegible] in the James, who were also put into land fights. Out of [illegible], 27,416 were surrendered and paroled at Appomattox Court House, and 19,079 captured in battle, besides about 3,000 [illegible] in the [illegible] on Fort Sedgwick. At least 10,000 men were killed or wounded, and 10,000 more deserted, on the road from Richmond to Appomattox. These two last numbers, however, cannot be verified, as no report was ever made of the final movements by Lee.

Thus it will be seen that Grant began the campaign with 98,019 effective men, and Lee with 72,278, and that consequently Lee, having all the advantages of position, breastworks, a [illegible] country, and a [illegible] line of supplies in his favor, was [illegible] the stronger of the two. The [illegible] the Wilderness campaign were about equal, [illegible] 20,000 on each side. And finally [illegible] reached Petersburg, he had more men [illegible] with him at the beginning of the campaign, showing that he had been heavily reinforced. It [illegible] to us this settles the question of Grant's generalship.

A curious bit of political [illegible] was brought to light on Monday in the Connecticut Legislature. The new election law, which was passed on Saturday, after a lively and bitter discussion, and afterward deposited in the office of the Secretary of State, was brought up on Monday morning for [illegible]ment, when it was discovered that it had been altered in its passage in several particulars, so as to materially change its [illegible] and make it conform to the [illegible] amendments which the Democrats had [illegible] in vain to engraft upon it. Acids had been used to erase certain words, the spaces left being filled up with others of a different and even an opposite meaning.

The Nashville Union and Dispatch (Democratic) newspaper published a charge, [illegible] day morning, that white and colored men had entered into a plot to burn Nashville, Murfreesboro, Columbus and Pulaski, murdering men women and children. At a meeting of citizens a committee was appointed to wait on Mayor Alden and ask an investigation. The Union and Dispatch says it can give [illegible]. It has come to light that some crazy person started the absurd story, which the [illegible] editor swallowed.

The New York Courrier des Etats Unis, the French Copperhead organ, is [illegible] at the violent tone of the Southern Democrats, and [illegible] them against indulging in the hope of [illegible] a lost cause. "Secession and slavery [illegible]," says the Courrier, "and the [illegible] that the Democratic party entertained the [illegible] projects of the ultraists of the South will [illegible] its defeat in the North." As the South [illegible] politicians ruled the Democratic Convention, and made its platform, it is very evident that [illegible] must follow, as a logical conclusion, according to the Courrier.

The New York Tribune, speaking of the Presidential election, says if the efforts put forth on either hand shall be equal, we believe the Chicago nominees will receive fully two-thirds of the Electoral votes cast.

The Indian Situation

We have been permitted to [illegible] late military orders [illegible] show what has been done [illegible] the campaign the present [illegible] Indians in this Department and [illegible] with the military and the white settlers with permission to make their contents [illegible].

Col Otis commanding the District of Owyhee writes from Fort Boise Aug 13th, giving a statement of the services of troops in his District in substance as follows: Bt Col James B Sinclair Capt 23d U S Infantry, left Fort Boise July 1[illegible]th with nine soldiers of Co H and nine scouts. At the date of writing Col Sinclair had not returned, but his proceedings will appear here after as detailed in a general order. Bt Capt Harris, First Lieut 1st Cavalry with twenty [illegible] enlisted men of Co M left Camp Lyon [illegible] scouted the left bank of the Owyhee from the ferry on the Humboldt road to its mouth, and the country between the Owyhee and the Malheur, and between the South fork of the Malheur and Harney Lake valley without meeting any Indians. He returned to Camp Lyon on the 27th July. Bt Lieut Col Coppinger, with forty five men of Co C 23d Infantry returned to Camp Three Forks Owyhee, having had during his scout a fight with the Indians near Battle Creek killing three and capturing three squaws and a boy. Corporal Leonard, Co A was wounded by an arrow. Bt Maj Walker, Capt 23d Infantry, left Camp C F Smith July 6th and scouted till the 29th. On the 1[illegible]th, he captured an Indian of Winnemucca's family and through him subsequently procured a conference with the head men of the band who agreed to come out of the mountains and surrender. Accordingly, seventy Indians, including Winnemucca's family, came in and gave themselves up. Maj Walker remained in camp from the 18th to the 26th negotiating terms with them, in pursuance of instructions from Gen Crook. On the 27th he moved to old Camp Alvord where one hundred Indians have made their headquarters.

On the 30th of July Major Walker wrote from Camp C. F. Smith to Division Headquarters, that those one hundred Indians were encamped as above stated at old Camp Alvord, under Stein's mountain, that they are the band which left Pyramid Lake Reservation last spring, taking a number of horses from the Truckee and have been since committing [illegible] on the Humboldt road and about Surprise Valley. They were also concerned in all the depredations on the Humboldt last [illegible], murdered the Pierson family in Honey Lake Valley, and had the fight with Captain Munson in May last. They are now very anxious to remain at peace and have surrendered all their stolen stock. Gen Crook has directed that they shall be allowed to stay at Stein's mountain to hunt and fish as long as they remain peaceable. Major Walker is of the opinion that if Camp C F Smith be kept up, peace can be maintained though the feeling among the whites against these Indians is intense. Winnemucca had then started toward Truckee river, though his family and nearly all his warriors are included in the surrendered band. Major Walker says more Indians will be in shortly.

On the 7th of August, Colonel Otis sent a report to the Department Headquarters, from Camp C. F. Smith, detailing the substance of a conference held on the 6th with the leaders of the band captured by Major Walker. He says that they represent themselves able to control the warriors of the band and they were ready to speak for all. They said that after four years of fighting they had become tired of war, satisfied of the impossibility of success, that while they were wasting away in numbers, the whites seemed to be more numerous than ever and they are now convinced that their best policy is to maintain peace. Having expressed their choice to stay in the neighborhood of Stein's mountain Col Otis assured them they would be permitted, with the approval of the commanding officer of the Department to remain there, but that they refrain absolutely from all interference with the whites or their stock or property, that all white men must be perfectly secure—even one man alone—in passing through their country, that they must hunt and fish and as soon as possible raise vegetables, etc, for their support, and they must not depend upon being fed by the government, unless in case of absolute necessity. The Indians gave their assent and pledge to all this and Col Otis thinks that there will be no further trouble with them. Pahori is the chief in command, and all the band acknowledge his authority. Winnemucca had been sent for. There were then gathered in at the Indian camp about two hundred old and young, and others were constantly coming in from the direction of Humboldt, Truckee and Surprise. Col Otis speaks in flattering terms of the conduct of Major Walker throughout the scout.

On the 19th August, Col Otis issued a general order, detailing the particulars of a successful scout by Bt Col James B Sinclair Capt 23d Infantry. He started on the 16th July with nine soldiers and Hicks with seven Boise scouts and proceeded to the Weiser river where had recently been encamped a band of thieving Snakes. On the 19th, finding the Indians had taken the alarm he took their trail and followed it through the mountains, and he captured Eagle Eye and his entire band of forty one including thirteen warriors, twenty one horses and large quantities of provisions. This occurred [illegible] the confluence of Little Salmon with S[illegible] river. Col Sinclair remained there [illegible] longer, and becoming satisfied that there were no more Indians in that part of the country he brought his command and prisoners to Ft Boise arriving August 12th having been absent twenty eight days. During seventy [illegible] of this time he was without rations except such as he had captured from the Indians, consisting of dried Salmon and [illegible]. The order concludes thus: The Colonel commanding feels satisfied that this capture puts an end to Indian hostilities in that portion of the country.

In addition to the above statements, Capt Williams, the Adjutant of the Department informs us that from his information from all [illegible] the number of Indians who have surrendered within the Department [illegible] a supplement [illegible] energetic and never flagging policy of Gen Crook, has [illegible] directed the campaign [illegible] our [illegible] at [illegible] at troubles which have for so long a time [illegible].

A [illegible] statement [illegible] by the Herald [illegible] lengthy [illegible].

The gist of its matter was that these reports the OREGONIAN and the Herald [illegible] [illegible] the United States not more than [illegible] While we do not differ with the Herald [illegible] that we [illegible] telegraphic reports we will not [illegible] the [illegible] following paragraph from the Herald's article:

[illegible] telegraph [illegible] attributable to the [illegible] offer of the OREGONIAN [illegible] under the [illegible] that he can [illegible] company of the business which he long con[illegible] and we are forced to submit to a wrong against which our sense of justice revolts or surrender the field to be occupied exclusively in the interest of the Radical party.

Once before we have had occasion to correct a similar misrepresentation uttered by the Herald concerning this same matter and we now again pronounce the Herald's statement false. The publisher of the OREGONIAN has been at all times, ready to co-operate in any honorable business way to obtain a reduction of telegraph charges. He has joined with the Herald publishers on more than one occasion in efforts of that kind and with some success. When, however, the managers of the Herald proposed to discontinue taking the dispatches or to limit the amount of matter taken in order to bring the telegraph company to terms, he refused to [illegible] and should such a proposition [illegible] he will again decline it. The OREGONIAN will not discontinue the dispatches. It will continue to publish the news all the news obtained. It is not a losses proposition to do less. The publisher has never declined to join in efforts to get the dispatches cheaper than the present rates but he has refused and will again if it be proposed to discontinue them altogether. The OREGONIAN can and will buy them, if the Herald can't or won't that is no business of ours, nor is it our fault in any way. The Herald's imputation is wholly and utterly false. The facts are that before the Herald started the OREGONIAN was paying $[illegible] per month and had paid as high as $[illegible] for one week's dispatches. There was then no competition and the prices were paid because the Telegraph Company would not furnish the dispatches for less. Since the Herald started the charges have been reduced through the joint efforts of the proprietors of the two papers to $4[illegible] per month, each. The publisher of the OREGONIAN was equally with the Herald managers interested in procuring the reduction, as the communications in the Telegraph office will show. We hope not to be obliged again to notice this persistent falsehood of the Herald.

A Child Wonder in a Ball Room

The gay company at the ball given at the Court House by the [illegible] Base Ball Club Thursday night were somewhat startled about [illegible] by a most extraordinary and singular occurrence. A little girl named A[illegible] a Davy, apparently thirteen years of age, had made her appearance in the room at nine o'clock, and as far as could be ascertained without any escort. She had danced every set and partaken freely of all the refreshments given her up to eleven o'clock, when, very heated and looking very pale she ran to the nearest seat and sat down. Here she pressed her hands to her forehead and [illegible] forward as though she were about to faint. Her singular conduct having attracted the attention of a young man who sat beside her, [illegible] and [illegible] for water and fans, with a hope of speedily relieving her from her precarious situation. All the simple remedies that could be thought of or recommended were used without avail. She sank into a kind of stupor from which it was thought she never would awake. Her respiration was hard and frequently attended with convulsions. She was laid out upon some chairs and seemed without the power of moving either limbs or body. Her eyes all the while being wide open all believed her in a trance. Dr Menees was summoned and administered several restoratives which seemed partially to release her from the stupor but not from the hysterical condition into which she had fallen. Her countenance then assumed a lively appearance and she commenced bending the forefinger of her right hand soon after and most gracefully raising her hand [illegible] it toward Heaven and said "Mother." She next let her hand fall upon her breast and from that moment her countenance wore an expression of deep melancholy. There issued from her lips a most beautiful and eloquent prayer the language of which was select and appropriate inasmuch that all were astonished. She next repeated a great number of verses and where in an ery [illegible] she supplied with a remarkable degree of aptitude. After this she told a story following out the thread, and finishing it in beautiful language.

She made the following expressions, her countenance changing with the sentiments: "Jesus is my friend [illegible]. O, if I should go astray what [illegible] would there be to woo me from erroneous faith?" All her remarks were seemingly addressed to her mother though dead, yet living in the memory of her child. She sang a song, "I am dying," with so much pathos that every eye was filled with tears. All this time Dr Menees had tried in vain to attract her attention.

She awoke at a quarter to [illegible] and said she would again enter the same state when one o'clock should come, which was verified on the striking of the bell [illegible] this condition, which was not as severe as before for an hour, when she awoke and became exceedingly lively and vivacious in conversation. She resumed the floor and danced until late in the morning.

She is represented as being very pretty and intelligent for one of her age. Her mother died some time since, leaving her father, and three or four other children [illegible] care little about and he last threw to abuse cruelly and brutally beat her.

One of her brothers is now in the workhouse, having been sent there for seventy two days for his violent treatment of her. While she is cruelly beaten she is also starved for days. Her appetite at the ball room is represented as having been most ravenous and she is said to have eaten much more than three healthy persons [illegible] to have done without suffering a derangement of the system.

It is believed that if she were given a good home and well cared for she would get rid of these peculiar spells which it seems [illegible] usual with her. She states that [illegible] her that she should [illegible] they [illegible] come upon her.

She was escorted to her home on the corner of South Union and Spruce streets on the termination of the ball.—[illegible]

At a Seymour and Blair ratification meeting at A[illegible] Ga [illegible] of the speakers [illegible] the constitutional amendment as [illegible] principally for the purpose of keeping out of office such gentlemen and true [illegible] Howell Cobb, A H Stephens, Robert Toombs, Breckinridge and Jefferson Davis. As the speaker named each of the [illegible] on the [illegible] there was a storm of cheers [illegible] when he mentioned the name of Jefferson Davis the hall was at once the scene of a wild and tumultuous uproar. Both delegates and spectators jumped to their feet as if in excitement uncontrollable. Hats and handkerchiefs were waved and shaken furiously above their heads, and yells and shouts and cheers and wild stamping for the space of several minutes shook the hall. It was [illegible] rebel yell. Of such is Southern Democracy.

A Mississippi daily has at the head of one of its columns a cut of a rebel flag, with cannon underneath and the words: "The guns that will kill Radicalism are for President Horatio Seymour, for Vice President Frank P. Blair."

Gen. D[illegible] of Gen. Meade's staff who has just arrived at Washington from Georgia says that reconstruction in that State has been effected upon a more enduring basis than perhaps in almost any other State for the reason that a large and powerful white element under the lead of such men as ex-Governor Brown and others has taken a leading part in favor of the Congressional policy.

Ex-Governor Orr of South Carolina has published an address to the people of the State urging them to accept Governor Scott's administration in a just spirit. "It would have been wise for them," he says, "to have accepted Congressional reconstruction at first and at present it is folly to expect any relief from the Democratic party on the subject of suffrage."

Orville Grant, brother of Ulysses, thus exhorts the Democrats to abandon their opposition to his brother's election: "I am sound as a nut on Grant and Colfax, am strong in the Republican faith, always have been and hope to be. I have no doubt how any person could get an [illegible] the contrary. If you hear any one say that I intend to vote the Democratic ticket, you may give an unqualified contradiction to it."

It has at last leaked out what the Democrats mean by [illegible] rebel [illegible] Democratic paper in apologizing for the selection of such a man as Blair says he was first nominated by our soldiers. He was first nominated by Gen. Preston of the rebel army. The nomination was seconded by Wade Hampton of the rebel army. General Forrest [illegible] Forces of the rebel army urged it in a speech. And these are our Democratic soldiers.

One of the best reasons for believing that Horatio Seymour was what his friends represented him to be, a devoted friend and supporter of the government during the war, is found in a volume of two hundred and forty four pages, published by Judge [illegible] of Virginia, in vindication of the South, and containing an eloquent Defense of the South by the Hon. Horatio Seymour, of New York. Of course he stood by the government—but which government?

The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Daily says that Secretary Seward in passing through New York the other day gave his friends to understand that he was about to declare in favor of General Grant. He was quite outspoken and the Democratic politicians are consequently much perplexed. They say they cannot understand how he can take such a position and remain in President Johnson's Cabinet. Some of the more knowing ones, however, affirm that the President will follow Mr. Seward's example.

The public have learned from Commissioner Wells' official statement that the Freedmen's Bureau, which people were led to believe had consumed tens of millions annually, has really cost from first to last, including clothing, rations, medicines, salaries, superintendence, school teaching, only $6[illegible],000—a sum that does not equal the amount spent for whisky and tobacco in three days. Fully one half the entire amount was spent in feeding and clothing the paupers of white rebels. Less than half the money was expended for the benefit of the blacks. Such are the facts.

Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase at the opening of the United States Court for the District of West Virginia on the 6th inst. in his charge of the Grand Jury, referred to the fourteenth article of the Constitution recently adopted as being valid and entitled to support. He said that in order to suppress the rebellion it was necessary to create a large public debt and that debt must be paid. Under the fourteenth article the faith of the nation was pledged to pay it. The Chief Justice therefore charged the jury that it was their duty to see that the revenue laws, providing for the payment of that debt, should be strictly enforced and that the burden of the public debt should as far as possible be equally distributed among the people and not paid by a few.

THE COUNTRY ALONG THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The Pacific Railroad is opening out a new country to emigration along the banks of the Humboldt River, Nevada. For three hundred miles there is a narrow streak of bottom land often very rich, though exposed to flooding in the winter rains, but there is also a long narrow belt of land above the line of flood capable of culture though the great expanse is barren[illegible] sage brush. However barren it may be as farm land it is good cattle pasture. In summer, bunch grass is plenty under every sage bush and after the first frost, the bitter white sage becomes sweet and savory and it keeps cattle in good condition till bunch grass comes again. The great town of the Humboldt will be where Reese River Valley enters 100 miles east of the present settlement. At this point trade and passengers will be landed for Idaho, north, and for Reese River, southwardly. There are several ranges of mountains full of minerals to be explored and prospectors are turning attention to the chances for fortune.—Alta, 20th.

Hon. James Thomas Elliott of Camden Arkansas, in a letter acceding to a request for permission to use his name as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Arkansas Second District says: "I am a truly and thoroughly reconstructed rebel. I say this in no canting or boasting spirit. I detest a hypocrite and despise the man who, like the vain glorious Pharisee of [illegible], makes an ostentatious parade of assumed humility when his heart is full of pride [illegible]. When I say that I am a reconstructed rebel I do not say it in that spirit which suggests extraordinary virtue or claims extraordinary consideration [illegible] on the other hand, to I say it in that spirit of undue humility which suggests a craven and cowardly heart. But I say it in that open, frank and manly spirit of one who has the honesty to confess that he has done wrong and the courage to say that he is sorry for it. I unhesitatingly and unreservedly accept the Republican platform as adopted at [illegible], and will sink or swim with it, and I believe that the principles enunciated contain the great fundamental idea of restoring the Union upon a fair, stable and lasting basis. I believe the Republican party has proved true and faithful to its promises and policy and will finally succeed in establishing that policy."

A lady editor in the east says that if the men desire that their children should look like them the fewer jaunts they make to California the better.

FENIAN GUARD.—The third annual target excursion and picnic of the Fenian Guard took place yesterday [illegible] day was very pleasant and doubtless a much greater number would have been in attendance had the [illegible] not been disappointed by the boat. The [illegible] Alert [illegible] not remember which, had been chartered for the trip was expected to leave here at [illegible] o'clock but made default, and so the [illegible] was engaged to take the company and [illegible] to the grounds, leaving this city about [illegible] A. M. [illegible] who had a wish in that direction [illegible] the opportunity of indulging in the [illegible] company proceeded to try their skill at target [illegible] with the following result:

The party returned about half past [illegible] all well pleased with the exercises of the day. The only drawback was owing to the boats, as Capt. Cabalin and his [illegible] all that could be done to make the day an occasion of [illegible] and interest to all who [illegible].

[illegible] HALEY'S MILLS.—These mills are now doing a most extensive business in the lumber [illegible] of any mills in our State. During the month of August [illegible] they have shipped about [illegible] feet [illegible] to San Francisco. The following [illegible] now engaged in the carrying [illegible] bark Zephyr, arrived at San Francisco [illegible] half cargo the brig Brewster [illegible] last Tuesday the bark Helen W. Almy [illegible] the river from this city to com[illegible] A. Kallenburg and [illegible] their way from San Francisco to load at [illegible] Eliza [illegible] comes in ballast for the [illegible] are at present only running of days, and are [illegible] out lumber as fast as the [illegible] are also engaged in making lath, of which [illegible] great quantity on hand, ready for [illegible] of the company to [illegible] very shortly when they [illegible] 1,000 feet per month. They have [illegible] from San Francisco a large new [illegible] by the Fallenburg now due. Mr. [illegible] of the firm of [illegible] San Francisco and one of the [illegible] Co and their agent in [illegible] city on business connected with [illegible] He has negotiated with Mr. [illegible] Huntington of [illegible] Watts, of Columbia [illegible] turn out at their respective mills [illegible] from outsiders some hard [illegible] to ship soon to try the San F[illegible] article of Oregon produce.

WHAT IS DONE.—Day before yesterday a pe[illegible] to the Judge of Fourth Judicial D[illegible] writ of mandamus on Marshal Lappeus, to compel him [illegible] the small pox patient to the outskirts of the [illegible] accordance with the provisions of the [illegible] hearing of the petition was set for [illegible] what the result was we were unable to learn. Wh[illegible] may be the result of this proceeding, we trust [illegible] course more consistent with the health of the city will [illegible] in the future should any more cases of this [illegible] occur. We presume however that the removal [illegible] man now sick would be of little benefit at this day. We learn that the Council has referred the [illegible] to the County Commissioners, who are to meet on Monday week. By that time any action in regard [illegible] will be useless as the man will then have recovered [illegible] dead. We learn that the authorities consider [illegible] of sending the patient to the [illegible] Dr. Hawthorne very properly informed [illegible] such thing could be done. The way matters look [illegible] some measures will be taken to dispose of the question some time in September.

KEROSENE EXPLOSIONS.—A general impression prevails among consumers of kerosene that its use is attended with an unusual amount of danger. Such however is not the case [illegible] explosive than water, and the [illegible] properly prepared oil is safe under all ordinary conditions. A lighted taper may be thrust into it [illegible] applied in any way, and does not explode [illegible] contrary it extinguishes [illegible] experimented with at the [illegible] temperature of [illegible] room. Kerosene accidents occur from two causes: first imperfect manufacture of the article; second, adulterations. An imperfectly manufactured oil is that which results when the distillation has been carried [illegible] too low temperature and a portion of the naphtha remains in it. Adulterations are largely made by unprincipled dealers, who add 20 to 40 per cent. of naphtha after it leaves the manufacturer's hands. The light naphthas which have been spoken of as [illegible] under the names of benzine, [illegible], gasoline, etc., are very volatile, inflammable and dangerous. They, however, in themselves are not explosive, neither are they capable of furnishing any gas when placed in lamps, which is explosive. Accidents of this nature are due entirely to the facility with which vapor by itself is explosive; to render it so it must be mixed with air. A lamp may be filled with bad kerosene, or with the vapor even, and in no possible way can it detonate unless [illegible] atmospheric air has somehow got mixed with the vapor. A lamp, therefore, full, or nearly full of the liquid is safe, and also one full of pure warm vapor is safe. Explosions generally occur when the lamp is first lighted without being filled, and also late in the evening, when the fluid is nearly exhausted. The reason of this will readily be seen. In using imperfect or adulterated kerosene the space above the [illegible] is always filled with vapor, and so long as it is warm and rising freely, no air can reach it and it is safe. At bedtime when the family retire, the light is extinguished; the lamp cools, a portion of the vapor is condensed; this creates a partial vacuum in the space which is instantly filled with air. The mixture is now a [illegible] explosive, and when upon the next evening, the lamp is lighted without replenishing the oil, as is often done, an explosion is liable to take place. Late in the evening, when the oil is nearly consumed and the space above filled with vapor the lamp cannot explode so long as it remains at rest upon the table. But take it in hand, agitate it, carry into a cool room, the vapor is cooled as previously, and the vapor [illegible] explosive.

The above is from the pen of a celebrated chemist, and will be of interest to all who use kerosene for lights and [illegible] many accidents in its use. For our own part, we have been inclined to believe that the oil would explode; however, the above article is certainly a very plain and [illegible] of the causes which [illegible] the explosion of lamps in which it is used.

FENIAN GUARD.—The [illegible] excursion [illegible] picnic of the Fenian Guard took place yesterday. The day was very pleasant, and doubtless a much greater [illegible] would have been in attendance had the company not been disappointed by the boat. The Senator or Alert, we do not remember which, had been chartered by the party, was expected to leave here at ten o'clock, but made default, and so the Fannie Troup was engaged to take the company and guests to the grounds, leaving the city about 11 A. M. Those present who had a wish in that direction were afforded [illegible] opportunity of indulging in the many dances, while [illegible] proceeded to try their skill at target practice, with the following result:

1st Prize, One pair custom made boots, presented by [illegible], won by W. H. Courtney.

[illegible] about half past five, all well pleased [illegible] of the day. The only drawback was [illegible] the boat, as Capt. Cabalin and his company did all [illegible] to make the day an occasion of [illegible] to all who attended.

[illegible] MILLS.—These mills are now doing the [illegible] in the lumber trade of any particular [illegible]. During the month of August, now closing, they have [illegible] about $21,000 worth of lumber to San Francisco. The following named vessels are now [illegible] trade for those mills. The [illegible] at San Francisco yesterday with a [illegible] sailed from their mills on [illegible] the bark Helen W. Almy dropped down [illegible] commence loading. The barks [illegible] and Almeda are now [illegible] to load at same mills. The [illegible] ballast for the same purpose. The [illegible] only running of days and are turning [illegible] as the vessels can receive it. They [illegible] lath, of which they have a [illegible] ready for shipment. It is the [illegible] to commence running day and [illegible] when they expect to turn out over [illegible]. They have, now on the way [illegible] a large new planing machine, to arrive [illegible] now due. Mr. Abbot, who is a [illegible] of Flatt & Abbott, lumber dealers of [illegible] one of the proprietors of the St. H[illegible] agent in San Francisco, is now in this [illegible] connected with his mills and lumber [illegible] with Mr. Love, of Vancouver [illegible] & Smith, of Monticello, and [illegible] of Columbia, for all the lumber they [illegible] their respective mills. Mr. A. has also [illegible] some hard wood which he proposes to try the San Francisco market in [illegible] produce.

[illegible].—Day before yesterday a petition was [illegible] Judge of Fourth Judicial District for a [illegible] on Marshal Lappeus, to compel him to [illegible] patient to the outskirts of the city, [illegible] the provisions of the ordinance made [illegible] of this petition was set for yesterday, but [illegible] we were unable to learn. Whatever [illegible] of this proceeding, we trust that a [illegible] with the health of the city will be [illegible] in the future, should any more cases of this [illegible]. We presume, however, that the removal of [illegible] would be of little benefit at this late [illegible] that the Council has referred the matter [illegible], who are to meet on next [illegible]. By that time any action in regard to it [illegible] as the man will then have recovered, or [illegible]. We learn that the authorities considered the [illegible] of the patient to the county hospital, but [illegible] very properly informed them that no [illegible] be done. The way matters look now [illegible] be taken to dispose of the question [illegible] bar.

[illegible].—The following is the list of passengers by [illegible], which sailed yesterday evening at [illegible]: [illegible] Hagood, J C Albert, G G Vanweg, [illegible] J W Jenkins, E M Oumette, E F Cole, B [illegible] Mrs A R Dalgerd, Mrs C Schmidt, Mrs [illegible] Farrell, M Hoffman, J Sanders, E Whit[illegible], P Selling, Miss E Boyle, Mrs W S [illegible] Kozatis, Col R S Williamson, C Wat[illegible], H B Oatman, Miss Morgan, J [illegible] W B Fain, R R Thompson, W B [illegible] Thompson, Miss J Thompson, Miss [illegible] J M Fox, C A Miller, Mrs Adair, Mrs [illegible], Capt Jordan, O S Silver, P J Mac[illegible], Steinberg, S Cohn, J F Bailey, R [illegible], J F Best, E J D Hart, wife and [illegible], Thos Dennison and 30 in steerage.

[illegible].—Vancouver, Aug. 26.—Editor Oregonian: I would beg you to add a small item in your paper in [illegible] the game of ball played to-day between [illegible] and Washington, stating the reason [illegible] was owing to the Athletics coming [illegible] notice us to get our nine together [illegible] notified us the evening preceding, we [illegible] had a far different game. M., who will be assisted by a competent [illegible]. The year is divided into four [illegible] each, the first, second and third [illegible] by a vacation of one week. The first [illegible] Monday, September 7, 1868; the [illegible] Monday, Nov. 23d; the third commences February 8th, 1869; the fourth commences April 26th, 1869. The year closes July [illegible]. The tuition is regulated by the highest study [illegible], and is payable quarterly in advance, unless special arrangements are made with the Principal.

[illegible].—Stanley's Variety Troupe have leased the [illegible] story of the Bank Exchange building on [illegible] street, and have fitted it up for theatrical [illegible]. They will give a performance which [illegible] character of those heretofore given by this troupe, will be both pleasing and agreeable to all who [illegible]. There is nothing in their performances to mar [illegible] refined taste, and to hear Dr. Stanley sing [illegible] all you have to pay to see the entire show.

In Town.—His Excellency Gov. Woods is at present in Portland. He appears in some better health than when we last saw him.

LOW WATER.—The Willamette river at this point has [illegible] lower [illegible] water mark. At [illegible] the Falls at Oregon City it is said to be as low almost as it ever gets. The Albany and Success [illegible] little water [illegible] the other [illegible]. We predict that during the State Fair it will be a difficult matter to reach Salem by water, although if it can be done, Captain [illegible] of the Albany and Captain Baughman of the Success are the men that will accomplish it.

A CHINAMAN who left here a few days since, was taken sick at Salem, and the Marshal of that city, having fears that the disease was small pox, very promptly called a physician, who examined the case and reported that the man had a fever and it might be the small pox, and advised that the patient be removed from the town. Steps were immediately taken to have him removed.

THE COACH belonging to the Western Hotel has recently been overhauled and repainted by Messrs. W. E. Cooper & Co., and it presents a splendid appearance. On [illegible] is painted a view of Castle Rock on the Columbia, and on the other of Mt. Hood. The whole job of [illegible] particularly attracted our attention being an [illegible] well [illegible].

CLACKAMAS COUNTY COURT.—The Commissioners' Court for Clackamas County, as we are informed, will meet on the first Monday of September as usual, but all probable business is postponed until the third Monday. Hence our item about the matter yesterday was only partially correct.

ERROR.—In our published report of the proceedings of the City Council yesterday morning, an error of the compositor gave the number of feet represented in the petition for privilege of constructing a street railroad on Front street as 5,050. It should have read [illegible].

NOT PRESENT.—The Orphans Aid Society met yesterday afternoon, but the President and other officers being absent no business was transacted. The society adjourned to meet on next Thursday afternoon at two o'clock.

SAILED.—The steamships John L. Stephens and Active, sailed yesterday evening, the former via Victoria for San Francisco at 6 o'clock, the latter for Victoria, at [illegible]. Passenger lists of each will be found elsewhere.

BY MOONLIGHT.—Quite a party went on the moonlight excursion to Oregon City last night. We expect they enjoyed themselves hugely, as they had not returned at a late hour this morning.

A FINE STOCK of goods are offered for sale at the lowest figures, by Arnold & Fain. Parties wishing anything in their line will find them ready to give some splendid bargains.

S. T.—1860—X.—The improved method in extracting Hostetter and other [illegible] PLANTATION BITTERS is [illegible] owing to their being prepared with pure St. Croix Rum, Calisaya Bark, &c. Our Druggists all complain that it is almost impossible to keep a supply, and that their orders, owing to the great demand and limited supply, are but tardily executed. Beware and get the genuine.

THE PEARLY GATES.—Pure white teeth and a sweet breath issuing like perfume from the roses through a pair of lovely lips, are, as Shakspeare says, "an excellent thing in woman." To keep the "pearly gates" of the mouth always spotless and the breath always fragrant it is only necessary to use the Sozodont daily.

SPALDING'S GLUE always up to the sticking point.

FURNISHED ROOMS, with Board, for gentleman and wife, at Mrs. Wright's 203 Second Street.

Look Out!!—For the return of Mr. Ouimette, of Vallard & Ouimette, who has gone to San Francisco to lay in the largest fall and winter stock of Fancy Dry Goods, Millinery Goods, etc., etc., of the latest variety and styles ever brought here. He will return in about two weeks, when every one is invited to call.

Expenses of the Government.

[illegible] is right to insist upon the utmost economy in the administration of the Government and [illegible] extravagance [illegible] be criticised and removed. It is only [illegible] that the exact truth should be told in all dis[illegible] Democratic journals [illegible] seem to be of this opinion, for [illegible] most reckless misstatements, [illegible] that the debt has been increased instead [illegible] that taxation has been made [illegible] instead of lighter, and that expenses [illegible] have been increased. That these charges [illegible] proved by an examination of official [illegible] manipulated by Republican Congress[illegible] who might be thought to have an interest in [illegible] figures, but proceeding directly from the Treasury Department, presided over by [illegible] considered friendly to the Congressional policy. We had a very succinct statement of Government receipts and expenditures in a paper drawn up by David A. Wells, U. S. Special Commissioner of Revenue, under date of July 18th, and called out by certain inquiries addressed to him by Congressman Allison, of Iowa. Mr. Wells has a National reputation as a statistician and financier, and the specifications which we epitomize are thoroughly reliable.

It appears that from the 31st of August, 1865, to the 30th of June, 1868, the aggregate of the National indebtedness, including cash in the Treasury, exhibits a reduction in round numbers of $250,000,000. On this abatement of debt the reduction of interest, calculated at six per cent, would be $15,000,000. Yet Mr. Seymour and his supporters say the debt has been increased!

Coincident with this reduction of debt Mr. Wells tells us that the amount of taxes abated since the close of the war, through the operation of the successive amendatory revenue laws of July, 1866, March, 1867, and February and March, 1868, is estimated at $167,269,000. By the system of Internal Revenue which prevailed at the close of the war, taxation was almost universal, land, agricultural produce, manufactured lumber, breadstuffs, and a few other forms of property or products alone being excepted. At least 10,000 distinct articles or products were made available as sources of Internal revenue:

"At the present time, of all manufactured articles or products of industry, the following only are subject to specific or direct taxation: distilled spirits, fermented liquors, manufactured tobacco, gas, matches and playing cards. Perfumery, cosmetics, patent medicines and a few other manufactured articles, are subject to a stamp tax proportioned to their selling price. Since July, 1865, furthermore, the additional tax of 5 per cent. on incomes in excess of $5,000 has been repealed, and the exemption in all incomes has been increased from $600 to $1,000. The taxation formerly imposed on the gross receipts accruing from the transportation of merchandise has also been entirely removed."

We may add that the bill which has become a law since Mr. Wells wrote, will still further abate taxes on certain property, and will greatly lessen the cost of collection, by cutting off a regiment or two of officers. The total expenditures over the Government for the last fiscal year were over $371,550,225, of which amount $141,635,551 was for interest on the public debt, which item will hereafter be only [illegible],000,000, about $15,635,551 having been paid last year on account of arrears on "compound interest notes." The receipts for the same period were $406,300,000, showing an excess of expenditures of $34,749,777. This is an exhibit the absolute government of Napoleon finds it impossible to make, for his budget is every year in arrears and he has to supply deficiencies by new loans. An administration which, three years after a war that employed a million of troops, with nearly a thousand war [illegible] a debt of about $2,756,000,000 [illegible] the debt by $250,000,000, abate[illegible] and still show an annual [illegible] expenditures of nearly $35,[illegible] a balance on hand of about $1[illegible] a remarkable success in [illegible] Then we must add to this [illegible] that while the total expe[illegible] for the fiscal year ending [illegible] $371,550,225, they will be [illegible] fiscal year only $285,881,013; sh[illegible] in one year of $82,664,212, [illegible] practicable a further modific[illegible] The restoration of [illegible] delayed for at least [illegible] and Democratic p[illegible] maintenance of a larger armed force than they will now be required, will much reduce the expenses of the Government, and by preventing the revival of southern trade and industry will equalize and lighten the burden of taxation. With a Democratic administration pledged to the violent overthrow of the governments of eight or ten States, this prospect would vanish, and we might count upon renewed excitement and increased expenditures.

As to the details of Government expenditures, a few facts may be given, to strengthen and illustrate the foregoing. The ordinary expenditures, or those which are independent of the unavoidable results of the war, include charges for the civil list, War, Navy, and Interior Departments, and Executive Bureaus, and aggregated the last fiscal year $46,231,319. The appropriations to cover the same charges during 1868–9 are only $106,816,411, according to a statement made in Congress by Mr. Blaine. The actual estimates for the year are still lower, being placed by Mr. Wells at $90,351,013; but, taking the whole figures of the appropriations, we have a reduction of nearly $40,000,000. As Mr. Blaine says, an estimate of the [illegible] expenses may be ga[illegible] by comparing [illegible] with the outlay incu[illegible] the last Democratic administration. [illegible] in 1857–58, the same class of expend[illegible] under Buchanan's administration were [illegible] $70,000,000 in gold, when the populated area of the country, the territorial supervision, the army and navy, and the department business, were all much smaller than now. The $90,000,000 or $106,000,000 to be met this year is all in paper, and when allowance is made for the difference in purchasing value of the two currencies, and for the vast increase in public business, which was inevitable in the course of things, the comparison is not unfavorable to the present administration.

The extraordinary expenses, or those which have been the unavoidable result of the war for the Union, including interest on the debt, pensions, bounties, care of freedmen and indigent Southern whites, reimbursement of States and individuals, etc., amounted last fiscal year to $225,818,845. For the current fiscal year they will probably not exceed $198,500,000; showing a reduction of of $27,318,845.

There has been much misrepresentation concerning the expenses of the War Department, which Mr. Seymour would have the public believe amounts to about $270,000,000 per annum. Mr. Wells states that they have aggregated in the three years since the close of the war $917,117,043, but 70 per cent. of this sum, or $647,688,000, was directly contingent upon the ending of the war and the disbanding of the army, and was disbursed within nine months after the surrender of Lee, mostly in the shape of back pay to our soldiers, pensions, bounties, and payments for supplies. The balance, $269,428,000, covers a period of 30 months, ex[illegible] disbursements for their contin[illegible] upon the war. The actual expenditures of the War [illegible] had been reduced for [illegible] to $54,712,419; and the estimates [illegible] for 1868–9 shows a still further [illegible] to $27,951,613. The expenses of the [illegible] Department from April 1, 1865 to June [illegible] $118,119,390; and 44 per cent. of this, or $50,487,170, was disbursed in the nine months [illegible] the close of the war. The expenses of the [illegible] department for 1867 were $25,775,503; for 1868–9 they will be about $17,300,000. All the figures in this paragraph marked reductions, past and still current; yet reckless partisans say the expenses of the Government are constantly being increased!

One of the most fertile sources of Democratic exaggeration has been the Freedmen's Bureau; yet Mr. Wells shows that the total cost of that beneficent institution since its organization to June 30, 1868, was only $5,617,000, and a great share of this, we know, was consumed in feeding and sheltering impoverished whites. As a last item we may state that the expenses contingent upon Reconstruction by Act of Congress, have been only $2,344,700. This source of expense is now nearly ended, like the Bureau. There is still room for reform and retrenchment in the conduct of the National Government; but those official facts show that much has already been done, and and refute the charges of reckless partisans to the contrary.

As there are a great many people sick and dying of a disease called Cholera Morbus, I would call attention to the Chinese Doctor Jim. Having eaten green fruit I was taken very bad with the above disease, and lay insensible for four hours, when Dr. Jim was called, and in 20 minutes after he gave me the first dose of medicine I was easy and asleep. I believe that there is no other doctor on the Pacific coast that could have relieved me as quick as Dr. Jim did. M. G. MORGAN.

H. W. SHIPLEY'S
PACIFIC TURBINE WATER WHEEL.

THESE WHEELS EXCEL ANY OTHER WHEEL in use, and are no Infringement on the Leffel American Turbine, but excel it in every particular.

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern: I notice A. Myers is publishing and circulating a statement that my wheel is an infringement on the Leffel wheel and he will "prosecute such infringement to the utmost extent of the Law." His statements are not worth a denial. His game is "bluff," which if he would only take the case to Court would soon be played out. Don't believe him!

I would be glad to get a case into the United States Court and get a decision. That would forever stop the mouth of Myers and his misrepresentations. The legal opinions of more reputable lawyers than Dodge & Munn, and A. Myers have pronounced my patents no infringement on the American Turbine. H. W. SHIPLEY.

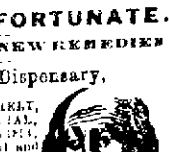
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REM[illegible] NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

O, those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER.
